

K2M Introduces First-of-Its-Kind SAHARA™ AL Expandable Stabilization System

SAHARA AL is the only lordotic expandable interbody device with integrated screw fixation on the market to help achieve spinal balance

LEESBURG, Va., June 20, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- K2M Group Holdings, Inc. (NASDAQ:KTWO) (the "Company" or "K2M"), a global leader of complex spine and minimally invasive solutions focused on achieving three-dimensional Total Body Balance™, today announced the introduction of the SAHARA™ AL Expandable Stabilization System, the Company's first expandable offering within its interbody portfolio. SAHARA AL is the only lordotic expandable interbody device with integrated screw fixation on the market to help achieve spinal balance.

The SAHARA AL Expandable Stabilization System represents a technological advancement over static interbody options, allowing for in-situ lordotic adjustment to match a patient's sagittal profile through one fusion device. SAHARA AL is a zero-profile device with multi-screw fixation, designed to provide stability to the anterior column, while featuring a comprehensive range of lordotic adjustments of up to 26 degrees. It is indicated as a standalone device for lordotic angles of 15 degrees or less. SAHARA AL is manufactured from commercially pure grade II titanium, titanium alloy, and cobalt chrome.

"The anterior-lumbar interbody fusion (ALIF) approach allows for greater segmental lordosis correction and implant fixation than other alternative interbody approaches," said Christopher Good, MD, FACS an orthopedic surgeon and Director of Scoliosis and Spinal Deformity at The Virginia Spine Institute in Reston, Virginia. "With variable in-situ lordotic adjustment, the SAHARA AL implant helps achieve sagittal balance and segmental reduction not generally attainable by ALIF cages with fixed lordotic angles."

SAHARA AL features K2M's innovative tifix® Locking Technology, which offers benefits such as allowing repeated screw adjustment up to three times, without compromising the locking feature. In addition, SAHARA AL features a comprehensive offering of footprints and heights to best fit patient anatomy.

"The introduction of the SAHARA AL Expandable Stabilization System marks a significant addition to our interbody portfolio as our first expandable offering in this category and the only device of its kind on the market today," said Eric Major, President and CEO of K2M. "This latest milestone—coupled with the launch of our comprehensive, next-generation Balance ACS™ platform earlier this year—further reinforces our commitment to developing differentiated technologies with the goal of facilitating Total Body Balance."
